

Travel Warning Acknowledgement

Required for Loyola University Maryland (LUM) Study Abroad and international immersion programs in countries under a U.S. State Department Travel Warning

As a student planning to study abroad or participate in a LUM international immersion program (Project Mexico) in Mexico, a country under a U.S. State Department Travel Warning, you are required to sign and submit this form to the Office of International Programs:

I hereby acknowledge that I have read the U.S. Department of State Travel Warning and the Consular Information Sheet for Mexico (<http://travel.state.gov>) which advises United States citizens planning to travel to Mexico. In spite of such warning, I have voluntarily made the decision to travel to Mexico for study abroad or an international immersion program (Project Mexico) in the Spring 2012 semester as a registered LUM student. I understand that the security situation may change while I am enrolled and that the appropriate Loyola University administrators will provide updated information from the before-referenced State Department webpage of the local U.S. Embassy or Consulate about the changing security situation abroad and that I am responsible to read it.

I understand that I am responsible for my safety. I agree to exercise my best judgment and to follow the advice of the On-Site Coordinator for Study Abroad or international immersion in Mexico, but I recognize that neither Loyola University Maryland nor the On-Site Coordinator can absolutely guarantee my safety.

Further, if I withdraw early from the Program, I agree there is no guarantee that I will receive credit or a refund of tuition or any other fees paid for study abroad or the international immersion program (Project Mexico). Academic credit and refunds of program fees will be determined according to the policies of the Office of International Programs or the sponsoring department/office.
